

The Department of Information Systems (IS) directs the development, operation and maintenance of the County's computer-based information technology (IT) hardware and software systems as well as provides a range of professional and administrative services in the development, implementation, maintenance, management and operation of a computerized geographic information system (GIS) spatial database for the County government. The IS Department also assists other County departments and agencies in using GIS data through maintenance assistance, training, or producing maps. Specific applications are also developed to help other departments, agencies, and the public use IT and GIS data. The IS Department also oversees the distribution of data to those in the public who have use of the digital information that has been developed.
